This book is part of a three-part series which is designed to be a comprehensive guide to the craft practice aspects of electrical installation work. The series covers installation practice, associated craft theory, safe working practice, and the organization of the electrical industries. The first two books cover the material required for the City and Guilds Course 236, Part 1. This book covers Part 2. Students are guided through the syllabus in a step-by-step scheme of exercises with explanatory notes, information sheets, and multiple choice questions.
